If your solar PV system underperforms, our partner Autarco will financially compensate you for any loss.

When you choose a solar system, you want a system that will meet all your requirements and be there for you.

Businesses choose solar systems as they help them be more self reliant and less dependent on others. It's also often the first step towards going green. The landscape is changing and many governments now also require businesses to use safe energy and help the environment. By going the solar way, businesses can show how serious they are about helping the environment and also avoid potential legal issues.

Our performance made solar system Autarco can help businesses achieve these results at a fraction of the cost. Our system is scalable. You will have the option to add more equipment as your requirements increase. We pay special attention to safety protocols and ensure our product is suitable for you. We're moving towards a technological era and use technologies like the cloud to make our systems more reliable and fun to use.
