Nice deal. Super quick and easy. I don't like figuring things out like propane. So any service that just pretty much does the research for you is a good thing for me.

Was paying an outrageous amount of money for propane, so I decided to try out getting bids. After signing up, I got multiple bids from companies and was able to select the one that had the cheapest price.

My husband and I just bought our first house and are also expecting our first child in 3 months. We never bought propane before and were so busy getting the house ready for our baby. This made it easy for us.

When you fill out the form on FuelWonk, multiple of our pre-qualified dealers will submit quotes directly to you for your heating oil or propane delivery needs so you can get the best price in town.

With FuelWonk, you never have to call around to multiple companies. We'll send those companies directly to you, and give you back that time so you can spend it doing what you want.

No. It's 100% free to use FuelWonk as a consumer. The dealers undergo a vetting process and pay a fee to be certified on our platform.

We need your information to securely send it to our pre-certified dealers so that they can reach out to you and bid for your business. We will not give your information to any third parties.

Once you complete the form, we get to work matching you with the highest rated pre-certified dealers in our network that service your area. You don't need to do anything other than stand by your phone. The dealers will get in touch with you directly to go over their services and give you a price quote.

Normally we aim to match you with up to 4 dealers. In some areas, we may not have 4 dealers that meet our criteria, in which case we'll match you with the maximum number of dealers that meet our vetting requirements to be on our platform.

Simple, just visit the dealer signup page and complete the form to talk with one of our dealer certification specialists.
