A century of innovation is made possible one project at a time. Got expectations? We'll exceed them.

When you partner with us on a renewable energy project, we bring an unwavering commitment to quality, safety and efficiency. Here's what clients can expect:

Before a project starts, we focus on the experience and service our clients deserve and ultimately receive.

Our teams focus on what you need to be successful while bidding, building and after the project.

With a century of construction experience, we combine historical data, references and every bit of our experience into each project plan.

When the unexpected arises, we take responsibility and bring solutions to the table.

Throughout the construction stages, we ensure clients and employees are provided with industry-leading safe workplaces that deliver quality products. This is achieved with our behavior-based programs.

Blattner's Lean Advantage is our ingenuity in action. We seek efficiencies and opportunities on every project to provide even more value.

In terms of relationships, a project in post-construction is still just the beginning. We maintain client partnerships for decades.
