As of 2024, the Netherlands is the 9th most expensive country in Europe. It is known for its high cost of living and high standard of living and fast becoming one of Europe's top tech hubs. For a single person living in the Netherlands, the estimated monthly costs are approximately €1,974, including €1,000 for rent outside the city center (Source: Numbeo).

Let's look at the expected costs of living in the Netherlands, covering food, transportation, utilities, leisure, and childcare, to help you manage your budget effectively.

A family of four can expect to spend around €5,106 per month, with an expected rent of around €1,697 in non-central areas (Source: Numbeo). This amount includes the costs of housing, groceries, utilities, transportation, and other essential expenses. For a single person, the estimated monthly costs amount to approximately €1,974, including €1,000 for rent outside the city center.

The cost of living can vary significantly depending on where you choose to live in the Netherlands. Rent in major cities like Amsterdam (€2,030), Rotterdam (€1,447), and Utrecht (€1,410) tend to be more expensive – way above the country average, so living in smaller towns or suburban areas can
