OVO Energy Ltd. 2009, Bristol, OVO Energy? OVO Energy???

Due to his increase, now could be the time to save money by switching to a fixed-price energy tariff.

Below, you'll find a table listing the most affordable fixed energy tariffs available right now, with all the details you need to help you decide.

For those wanting a quick answer, we have summarised the cheapest supplier for gas and electricity based on current prices below:

*These prices are based on the average energy usage of a 3-bedroom house in the East Midlands for dual fuel, paying by direct debit. You will likely get a different estimate with your own details. Please check the prices based on your circumstances before switching.

*Octopus Energy are the joint cheapest right now with the £50 included, plus their fixed tariff includes no exit fees.

If you know your annual gas and electricity usage, then you can use our energy bill calculator to work out how much each of these tariffs would cost you compared to your existing tariff.

A fixed rate tariff is an energy tariff where the price you pay for each unit of energy, like electricity or gas, stays the same for a set period, usually one or two years. This means that even if energy prices go up or down in the market, your rates won't change.
