Working alongside our clients, our renewable energy experts aim to support whole-system integration for each renewable energy asset. As an organisation that is curious and creative by nature, Arup's consultants provides innovative solutions and challenges convention, lending its technical, commercial and regulatory expertise across geographies to help deliver winning renewable energy projects.

As Arup's Global Energy Leader, Alan draws together our broad range of capability around the world. Alan oversees, enables, links and transfers our various energy activities to ensure that we remain at the leading edge in our fields of activity, weaving together pragmatic outcomes which are technically, commercially and societally deliverable.

Brian Raine is Arup's Americas Energy, Water, and Resources Leader and a Principal in the Houston office.

Andrew is the Australasia Energy Lead at Arup, with a strong knowledge of business leadership and in the management and governance of complex infrastructure projects.

As Arup's Energy leader for East Asia, Peter works with our clients to achieve sustainable solutions by bringing together our deep understanding of urban infrastructure with the latest developments in energy technology.
